Remembering Lives That Matter:

DISABILITY & SENIOR ADVOCATE MAGGIE “DEE” DOWLING SLOWLY RECOVERING FROM MAJOR CANCER SURGERY

MARCH 18th EVENT IN SACRAMENTO HONORING LONG TIME
SENIOR ADVOCATE BILL POWERS

SACRAMENTO, CALIF (CDCAN) [Updated 02/09/2010 02:35 AM (Pacific Time)] - Longtime respected disability and senior rights advocate Maggie “Dee” Dowling is slowly recovering at home, after major surgery last November to remove a life threatening cancerous tumor. After returning home in December, her condition was again critical due to serious complications that required last month a 10 day return to the hospital.

Dowling [pictured left in November after her surgery, with close friend Lynn Carman – photo by Marty Omoto] – known simply as “Maggie Dee” across the state, is back at home, but is facing a long and difficult road to recovery. Her condition is considered “stable” but still serious. Friends and others who want to send cards, letters or messages of support to her can send to her home at:

Maggie “Dee” Dowling
426 West 11th Street
Pittsburg, CA 94565

Due to her condition she is still not able to use her computer and hasn't been able to access her email since last November.

Maggie “Dee” who is a member also of the Gray Panthers, ADAPT and other disability advocacy groups, said she was having difficulty eating and said that she has lost over 50 pounds and continues to lose weight. She cut her hair (as pictured in the photo) before her surgery in order to make it easier to care for her in the hospital.

Hosted Radio Show & Longtime Presence At Disability and Senior Rights Hearings and Meetings

Maggie “Dee” who lives in Pittsburg, California is helped by several In-Home Supportive Services (IHSS) workers, and until her surgery last fall, hosted a San Francisco University based radio show on disability issues. She has been a longtime advocate on a wide range of disability, senior and mental health rights, and low income family issues for decades.

On November 5th, just weeks before her surgery, Dowling provided through a special setup by phone, an emotional and compelling testimony to the Assembly Budget Committee on the problems and fears she faced in the implementation of recent changes to the In-Home Supportive Services program impacting her workers (providers).

She has also been a frequent presence and voice at nearly every Olmstead Advisory Committee meeting since the committee was formed in 2005, a frequent guest and commentator at numerous CDCAN Townhall Telemeetings and other disability and senior related events and meetings statewide and locally in the bay area on issues including healthcare, Medi-Cal, accessible and affordable housing, transportation, IHSS, SSI/SSP, end of life and other issues.

MARCH 18th EVENT WILL HONOR LONGTIME SENIOR ADVOCATE BILL POWERS

Meanwhile another widely respected senior and disability advocate, Bill Powers of Sacramento [pictured left in September 2009 photo, courtesy of CARA], who last spring announced his withdrawal from day to day advocacy work, due to personal circumstances, will be the focus of an event honoring and paying tribute to his life and work, on March 18th Thursday from 4:00 to 6:00 PM, at the Unitarian Universalist Society, at 2425 Sierra Blvd in Sacramento.

The event, hosted by the California Alliance for Retired Americans (CARA), which Powers was a founding board member, will honor him, according to CARA, for his work “as a volunteer lobbyist on behalf of seniors, people with disabilities, renters, workers, consumers, and low income people. “

Joan B. Lee, the respected and beloved senior advocate who died in August 2008, said before her passing that Bill Powers was her “mentor” who gave her continued “priceless inspiration and guidance” over the many years.

Note From Marty Omoto on Maggie Dee Dowling and Bill Powers:

Both Maggie “Dee” Dowling and Bill Powers are examples of advocacy that has made a difference in countless ways for countless numbers of people across the state over the many years covering a wide range of critical issues. I hope people will take time to think about the advocacy work of both Maggie “Dee” Dowling and Bill Powers – and take the time to remember them both, and to thank them for the difference they have made in so many lives. Neither one received any salary for their work.

Maggie of course is – at least for now – unable to continue her advocacy work, though she hopes to return as soon as she is able to. Her health right now is very precarious and there is concern about her recovery. So please send her cards, letters and messages of support. Such messages can help her in her recovery.

When I visited her in the hospital I made copies of photos of dozens of friends and others and taped them to the wall in her hospital room, to remind her that so many were thinking of her. She is a cherished friend to us all.

And for Bill Powers – please come to or support the event on March 18th to honor his work and life. He has fought so hard and for so long on issues of justice and fairness for everyone – but especially for those who have felt shut out, shouted down or shunted aside in the dreams that belong to all of us in this country. He has never forgotten those that policymakers – and even some other advocacy groups – would like to forget.

From issues of affordable and accessible housing, transportation, to real reforms in health care to needed in-home services and supports, Bill Powers has been there over the years and decades. Let’s all be there for him on March 18th. So many people count Bill as a wonderful friend – as I do too.

All lives matter. And so many lives that have made a difference to so many others. One can remember those who have passed away over the years and think of Bill Young, of Joan Lee, of Noel Neudeck, of Warren Mattingly, of Betty Bacon, of Bob Roberts, of Shirley Klein, of Natasha Littletree, of Mary Ann Jones, of Jim Sanford, of Ruth Shelton, of Donald Roberts, and so many, many others – many of whom we never got the chance to say “thank you” before they died.

Think of those lives, and remember these two lives now – Maggie Dee Dowling and Bill Powers. Lives that matter.
